

Participants in TFT University's recent Service Seminar are shown here in front of the new museum at TFT's new Innovation Way facility in Indiana. The program, spanning three days, covers all aspects of product service and technical support, including hands-on repair programs, shop floor observations, and review of digital media and on-line support resources.

From handline nozzles, fixed and remote control monitors, and foam injection equipment, to water supply valves, this is ideal program for fire department shop personnel and dealer service staff.
